A Word from the Chair

It has been quite eventful since the last newsletter. Sadly, the summer fair had to be cancelled at the last minute due to the dreadful weather. Sorry to everyone who was disappointed, but for health and safety reasons it would not have been feasible to hold in on the plaving field in Silkstone. Thank you to everyone in the various groups who worked towards the day to make it successful. From the Parish Council I would especially like to thank Lesley Gill and Janice both of whom worked tremendously hard for the best part of twelve months to make the event a success, only then to see it cancelled. fingers crossed for next year. We will let you know when a date for 2025 has been made, and location.

The damage to the church wall in Silkstone was a shock to see, thankfully no one was seriously hurt in the accident. My thoughts go to the family and friends of those whose head stones were damaged and hopefully the Huskar Memorial will not be too bad after the rubble has been removed. I understand the Church has everything well in hand.

Finally, I would like to thank both Lesley Gill and Alan Thompson for their time on the Parish Council, both have decided that sadly it is time for them to step away from the parish council. Both have been major contributors in the past, and will be missed.

Anyone who feels they would like to volunteer to be on the Parish Council, in the first instance please speak to any Parish Councillor or contact Clerk to the Parish Council Richard Bell, on 07947 545504.

Editorial

Welcome to the Autumn Newsletter

I hope this Newsletter finds you well and that you have enjoyed the Summer sunshine, so far?

It took its time, but eventually the sun did come out – perhaps I should be quoting that well known song 'The Sun has got its hat on, hip hip hip hooray!'? The Sun continues to shine (and is warm when it is out!) – keep going Sun!

This Newsletter includes a pull-out of a Silkstone Parish Walk, courtesy of the Care Group, update from our Twinning village's organiser, information from Sarah regarding the Penistone Train line, a look back at The Station Pub Silkstone Common, gardening tips from our very own Matt B, and the amazing work of our 'Sensational 6'!

We have been in touch with the RSPB regarding protection of our Swifts, see article from Sian – Nature Editor.

I echo the Chair's message about the Silkstone Church wall accident, and the catastrophic damage to a number of gravestones – which has been very upsetting for the connected families.

I have been chatting with a number of people in Silkstone and Silkstone Common, and have asked what they would like to see in the Silkstone Parish Newsletter. The main topic of interest is 'what is going on in our villages and in Barnsley centre'. So, we have updated and added information to our 'Local Organisations' at the back of the Newsletter, and I have selected some events in Barnsley Town Centre throughout the Newsletter.

Please let me know if there are areas of interest you would like to have included in the Newsletter

Silkstone – St Florent Twinning Association

Efforts are continuing to make plans for the Twinning Visit which is to take place in July 2025. Our French friends are co-ordinating matters at their end and exact dates and numbers are yet to be determined. If the visit is to take place it is essential on our part to have sufficient hosts to accommodate the visitors who hope to come. We appreciate that people may be nervous of having strangers stay in their homes, let alone strangers who speak a foreign language, I know that we approached our first hosting experience with great trepidation but found the whole thing to be positive and enjoyable. We have made many good friends, taken part in numerous twinning excursions whilst hosting and have had two fabulous holidays in the Vendee.

Since the last newsletter was circulated a very successful wine & cheese afternoon was held in the garden of Patrick & Linda in Silkstone Common. It was open to all persons interested in twinning activities and newcomers were welcomed. We intend to have more get togethers to socialise and spread the word, details will be circulated on the community facebook page, please come and join us and get any questions you have about twinning answered.

Please feel free to contact me or any twinning group member if you have any queries about the organisation. The Parish Council have always been supportive of the group and were instrumental in its formation in 1991. Two of our members share their twinning experiences below.

Liz Waterlow

We really enjoyed our twinning experience. We have had two young guests to stay for 4 days in 2014 and again in 2017 and enjoyed having them. We are not fluent French speakers by even the tiniest amount and our guests were not English speaking but this just made us all get more creative in the way we communicated.

Issue 103

The French girls were very excited to meet the Lapin (rabbits) in our garden and take part in a water fight with our son. The young French visitors had regular contact with the Frech Youth Workers who ensured their wellbeing throughout the visit. The young people were extremely polite and interested in all that took place.

We enjoyed taking the French youngsters to our junior school where they were able to look in the classrooms, attend games Afternoon and met some teachers. We attended the Church and a coach trip to York Minster with them. We also dined out meeting other French visitors and hosts from the Parish.

It is a great way to share cultures and form new friendships.

Wendy, Howard & Daniel Clemmet.

Ian and I came to Silkstone Common in 2003 not knowing anyone. Ian had visited France every year since he was 19 and loved to speak French. We saw the advert for the Twinning Group asking for hosts and decided to have a go as it was something we could do together. We were thrown in at the deep end with a couple who said they could not speak English. We became friends with them and a couple of years later were welcomed to stay with them on the subsequent visit to St Florent. Jannine liked to cook and taught me some local recipes during our visit there.

Over the years we have taken part in twinning visits both as hosts and visitors. We have been lucky enough to host a number of other guests including a teenage boy over the years. Our visitors have been delighted by the simplest of activities – visiting the local pub for a pint; seeing the dry stone walls; sheep wandering across the moors in addition to the more organised trips that take place during an exchange visit.

The visits to St Florent were good fun and educational - the highlight each time was the Puy de Fou, a spectacular show on French history with 3000 actors & animals! A tour of their public gardens showed us fruit trees planted for the community to enjoy because of this fruit trees have been planted in The Orchard in memory of my late husband and it is hoped that everyone will enjoy the fruit in the years to come.

Above all we soon became part of the Twinning Group in Silkstone Common getting to know lots of people and making good friends that have continued over and above the twinning visits. We have had great nights in our garden& others when we formed small 'splinter' groups to entertain the French visitors in the evenings. This was never an onerous task as daytime events were organised for the whole group and everyone 'mucked in' in the evenings.

Matt B's Gardening tips

I was reminded recently of a great word, 'Fall', which perfectly sums up this time of year in such a beautiful way. Oranges, yellows and reds celebrate this great seasonal transition. Fall, ok, Autumn, whilst being beautiful is not the signal to 'put the garden to bed', there is so much our gardens can give us and we can give them over the coming months. It might look like our gardens are sleeping, but underground plants slowly build, connecting with the soil and its inhabitants, especially new plants.

Let's return to plants and planting from the last issue. September to next March are some of the best months to plant. If you noted those gaps in your garden from last time, propagated some plants or chose from a magazine, it's time to get them in the ground. If you are still to purchase then a few tips; 1. Buy perennials small, in P9 pots. It's cheaper, they establish better and are very sustainable. 2; Buy peat free and locally grown, a little more expensive but you get a plant with a low carbon footprint and acclimated to local conditions. 3: Plant trees & shrubs bare root (Nov – March). Cheaper and establish more easily than potted.

So, take the tips on plant choice from the last issue, plant densely and fill your borders, avoiding planting when the ground is frozen or waterlogged.

Autumn into winter is also a great time for pruning most, but not all, woody plants.

Check the Royal Horticultural Society website for advice. Many plants respond well to winter pruning, particularly if they need a 'renovation' prune, having become unwieldy. Pruning in winter increases vigour, meaning strong healthy growth come spring, often to the gardener's advantage, if done right and with follow up. We will discuss pruning more another time, but for now identify and research your plants to see if they would benefit from pruning once dormant.

A key and overlooked element of Autumn is that of local flora and fauna. It is wonderful to see butterflies, bees & birds during the warmer months, but as we head into Autumn keep them in mind too. Humans have a clinical obsession with tidiness, often extending to our gardens. Not always a bad thing, but often destructive to those creatures I mentioned. Let's take an Elephant Hawk Moth, laying eggs during summer, followed by huge caterpillars which need a nice comfy spot to overwinter.

Issue 103

Your burgeoning border seems ideal with food in late summer, and as plants fade provides hollow tubes and leaf litter for winter homes. Until we 'put the garden to bed' ensuring next year's delightful winged spectacles are now on the way to the local authority tip. So, perhaps leave that border, those lovely little homes so next year we have more Elephant Hawk Moths, or all manner of other beneficial and beautiful species.

The key here is to consider the whole lifecycle of creatures, whether they need food, a home or a place for their young to develop. Each stage is critical and whilst gardens often provide a great source of food and homes in spring and summer, autumn and winter is just as crucial.

Beauty in decline, The Hepworth, Wakefield

On top of this, leaving your garden gives another feel to your space, it's not just flopping stems and broken twigs, there is beauty in decline. Frosted seedheads, spider webs with dew drops, robins perched on bare branches all keep you engaged with your garden throughout the year, winter blues....I don't think so! So, save some space, leave those borders alone, and as next year's growth starts in spring you can start to slowly cut back, once natures cycle is complete. A couple of exceptions, where it is a good idea to cut back your borders now. 1; If you are fighting a specific disease, which can overwinter in fallen foliage. 2; You are adding new plants! Though leave some space untouched if you can.

If you really can't see the beauty in decline, the next best thing is a 'chop and drop' mulch. What it says on the tin, prune your plants, chop into small pieces and drop back on the bed, free fertiliser and the chance to help some of those lovely creatures.

Cheers,

Matt matt@mattbigginsgardens.co.uk

Protect our Swifts, defend their nests

Over the last few weeks, the vast majority of Swifts have left on their long-haul flight to Africa. Many of us have enjoyed their stay, and a huge thank you to everyone who reported their sightings of nesting Swifts using the Swift Mapper App.

This year, the app hit the fantastic milestone of 100,000 records in the UK. This provides us with a much better understanding of Swifts and how to help them. But there's more to do.

The sad fact is that for every ten Swifts zooming across our rooftops in 1995, there were only about three by 2022. One of the problems facing Swifts in the UK is a lack of suitable nest sites to raise their chicks and build their strength before migration.

But there's hope. We've been working with other Swift experts to try and help Swifts find new homes, such as 'Swift bricks'. Snug and watertight, these special bricks have a space inside for Swifts to build nests and safely raise their chicks. Thousands of them have already been installed across the UK, providing crucial new nesting sites for Swifts, and other birds like House Sparrows which are also in serious decline.

Dr Guy Anderson, one of our migratory species specialists here at the RSPB, said: 'I'm deeply concerned about how many Swifts have been lost. The thought of a future where the curved wings and joyous calls of Swifts no longer fill our skies on summer evenings doesn't bear thinking about. Protecting species like these is at the heart of what we do, and as success stories like Red Kites and Bitterns have shown us, even the most endangered birds can – and will – be brought back from the brink. So now's the time for you to take action'.

Your donation could help protect safe havens for Swifts and other vulnerable birds, in greatest need of our conservation efforts.

Thank you

'The Sensational Six'

The fantastic fund raisers for Barnsley Hospital (NHS Charities)

We have a small group of ladies all resident in Barnsley, collectively known as 'The Sensational Six' who fund raise for our local NHS Barnsley Hospital Charity to help ensure the best care possible is given to patients. They do this by crafting and knitting novelties at seasonal times of the year, with the bonus of chocolate! The driving force behind this group is Beryl Fairclough, resident in Martin Croft, Silkstone.

In November 2022, Beryl received The Proud of Barnsley Award for fundraising and was recently honoured by the then prime minister, Rishi Sunak with the Points of Light Award.

2023 was an incredibly special year, which marked 75 years of the NHS and as part of the celebration Beryl was invited to London to represent Barnsley Hospital Charity. NHS Charities Together arranged a photo session at the Rankin Studio, and portraits of NHS staff, patients, volunteers, and supporters were exhibited at the Saatchi Gallery. Beryl did a brief but very important interview with the BBC to promote our NHS.

Beryl says 'the awards are lovely and that they are for everyone involved, the Sensational Six, friends and family who without them we could not raise the money that we do.'

They have helped to raise £1m for 'Tiny Hearts', the premature baby unit which has been completely refurbished with the latest and best equipment. They recently completed a 3-year fundraising effort of £300k for 'Make a Memory' to transform a ward for the elderly and make it into a homely, calm, and relaxing environment which supports older patients particularly those living with dementia and Alzheimer's. The next envisaged project will be to support cancer care but as yet no decision has been taken due to the complexity of the services provided. It will likely be the most expensive project to date, and they are looking for ways to boost fundraising. With this in mind, Beryl has challenged herself to being more creative than normal and introduced a few Halloween characters to the existing Easter and Christmas novelties.

The costliest item for a novelty is the Chocolate Orange that sits inside, and they are reaching out to local people for donations. The landlord of the Red Lion pub (Silkstone) has kindly offered to accept these donations on Beryl's behalf, and they can be dropped off during opening hours.

The novelties can usually be purchased at The Charity Hub at Barnsley Hospital, The Red Lion and The Wagon & Horses. All novelties contain either a chocolate orange or a cream egg and sell for between $\pounds 3$ and $\pounds 5$. Beryl would like to thank all those who sell the novelties, as their support is essential.

So next time you are shopping why not pop a chocolate orange into your basket and drop it into the Red Lion!

Many thanks for your support.

Local Walks - CARE

The parish CARE group are working hard to make a series of walks available for anyone interested in walking in the beautiful countryside around us. We intend to include a walk in each of the next few editions of the Parish Newsletter. This edition's walk is a pleasant stroll starting at the stocks in Silkstone and following the historic waggonway.

You can pull out the walk from the centre pages (17-20) or if you prefer, use a digital version on your phone. The digital version includes pictures of highlights, some text about the highlights and directions on screen and / or spoken. If you want the digital version, you can find it at https://tinyurl.com/Low-mill-walk . The full list of walks is at https://www.komoot.com/user/silkstonepa rishwalks – where we are a partner with Komoot. If you use Komoot, they include a free map of the larger local area when you sign up to a free account. Please remember to follow Silkstone Parish Walks on Komoot – it helps by giving an idea of how much the Komoot app is being used. Any comments/ feedback, email us at silkstoneparishwalks@gmail.com

Additional Information

- A-B. The bridleway follows the route of the old Silkstone Waggonway. This is one of the oldest plate ways in the country, built in 1809, to transport the coal mined in the valley down to the Canal Basin at Barnsley Bridge, Cawthorne. The stone sleeper blocks drilled to locate and position the iron rails can best be seen between the stocks and Barnsley Road.
- C. After crossing Barnsley Road see the reconstructed Waggon pass-bye with replica iron rails and a wall plaque. The Waggonway was a single track and at convenient places pass-byes to allow passage of the full and empty wagons.
- D. The spoil heap on the left of the Waggonway indicates the site of Joseph Popplewell and Partners Colliery known locally as 'Pop Pits' worked first in the early 1800s after the Waggonway was built.
- E. Low Mill Farm about 400 metres further along the Waggonway is the site and remains of an iron furnace which was in use in the early 1800s. The ore mined from bell pits on the hillside above, was fed into the top of the furnace along with coke. The bellows for the air blast were worked by a mill wheel driven by water from Silkstone Beck stored in holding ponds in the valley.
- F. The small wood was originally a holding pond for a 17th Century iron furnace at Barnby, it is rich in wild flowers such as Bluebell, Red Campion and in ditches Ramsons.
- G. The bridleway was once a very important road used by pack horses carrying charcoal to Barnby Furnace and as a route down the valley before the Waggonway was built.
- J. Cross the road opposite the entrance to the church. Near the boundary wall there is a large rectangular pointed monument. This is the memorial to the 26 children who lost their lives in the Huskar Pit disaster in July 1838. These children were buried in the graveyard in separate coffins in seven graves. Note the children's ages.
- The Church of all Saints was built on the remains of an old Saxon Church. Building commenced about 1150 and was completed in 1495. It is built of York stone with an internal oak roof. During the Commonwealth under Cromwell, the wall paintings in the church were whitewashed over and horses stabled in the church.

A Rose by any other name...

When is a church not a church? Over the last few weeks there has been much speculation in the media that the Church of England are ditching the word Church. As I looked deeper into this it was evident that the media have the wrong end of the stick on this one. There certainly are new churches that have sprung up in the last few years, which don't use the traditional labels or align themselves to a particular saint.

We at Silkstone go for the blanket cover of 'All Saints'...perhaps our forebears a thousand years ago were keeping their options open and betting on every horse! (That was a joke, by the way, before anyone sends a stinging letter to the Editor...clearly I'm no saint!) I'm all for more churches springing up whatever label or name they choose as long as Jesus is at the centre. So just to assure everyone, we won't be dropping the name Church at Silkstone.

It's worth reflecting on what is a church. It's not firstly the building, however much we love it and care for it, and I do. The church is the people. All baptised Christians are part of the church.

In the bible it speaks of 'living stones being built into a spiritual house.' The church should always be a 'building site' adding people to it's congregation. Why not come and take your place in the life of the church? It will be lovely to see you and I'll attempt to keep my sermons short!

Celebrate 200 Years of Train Travel with Penistone Line Partnership!

In 1825, a transformative journey on the Stockton & Darlington Railway (S&DR) revolutionised global trade, travel, and communication. As we approach the 200th anniversary of this historic event, Penistone Line Partnership (PLP) is joining national celebrations across the UK in 2025.

Share Your Stories and Skills!

We invite you to help showcase our region's heritage and culture locally and share events on Railway 200's interactive online map. This unique opportunity allows our community to connect with the rich history of train travel and highlight its ongoing importance. A National Exhibition Train will travel across the UK from June 2025 to June 2026, offering everyone a chance to participate.

Here's how you can get involved:

- Oral History Content: Share stories about railway workers & themes from the past.
- Anniversaries and Events: Identify upcoming anniversaries ending in 0 or 5 that could be celebrated with Railway 200 events.
- Railwayana Collectors: Do you or someone you know have railway memorabilia to feature on the Railway 200 website?
- Model Railway Enthusiasts: Host an event for model makers and collectors.
- Historic Sites and Stories: Contribute knowledge about graves or memorials linked to railway history.

- Creative Contributions:
 Showcase rail-themed artwork in a local platform gallery.
- Station History Panels: Help create heritage panels with local station adopters or the PLP for your station platform.
- Red Wheel Plaques: Contribute stories for transport heritage plaques. Learn more from the National Transport Trust https://www.nationaltransporttrust.org. uk/red-wheels

Celebrating Rail's Future

This celebration is also about the future of rail travel. The industry can inspire future generations by promoting careers in rail and sharing advancements in technology, innovation, and sustainability. PLP will develop projects with local schools and youth groups. If you are a teacher or youth leader, please get in touch with PLP's Community Rail Officer at penistoneline@gmail.com

Join Us on This Journey

Be part of this extraordinary celebration to honour the past, appreciate the present, and inspire the future of rail travel. For more information or to contribute, contact us at info@penline.co.uk and let's work together to celebrate 200 years of train travel!

Origins of the Station Inn, Silkstone Common

The Station Inn stands at the crossroads in Silkstone Common and is a popular pub with locals and visitors alike. The Silkstone Parish Website notes that it was built in 1853, but recent research has revealed otherwise.

John Gaunt was responsible for building The Station Inn at Silkstone Common – originally called The Junction Inn. It was built before the railway line was opened in 1854 and re-named the Station Inn sometime after.

The date of 1853 has always been relied upon as being correct but having researched John Gaunt's early life, newspaper reports at the time reveal that pub was actually completed and ready for trading in 1851, not 1853.

On 15th Mar 1849, John Gaunt married his second wife, Mary Barlow, daughter of innkeeper William Barlow. John and his two children from his previous marriage went to live with his new wife and her father at the Six Ringers in Silkstone. That family arrangement still existed by the time of the UK census on 30th Mar 1851. John's occupation is given in census returns as "carpenter", as was his father John Gaunt senior and also his brother Amos Gaunt.

He must have been building The Junction Inn at the time of the census, possibly with the help of his brother Amos, as just over 5 months later on 3rd Sept 1851 he applied for a wine and spirits license at the Brewster Sessions held in Barnsley, where such licenses for public houses were considered and granted annually by the local magistrates. At that time a pub could sell beer without having to go to the magistrates, but to sell wines and spirits they needed a licence approved by the Courts. The newspaper report notes that John Gaunt's application was one of a number that were adjourned to be considered again in 24th Sept. An article reporting on these re-considered applications noted that out of several cases left for consideration only one new license was granted – and it wasn't that of John Gaunt.

He applied again for a license in both 1852 and 1853. On both occasions he was refused which meant that he must have operated The Junction in the early days as a beerhouse and not a fully licensed public house. William Tattershall, who ran the Bonny Bunch on the opposite side of the road had also had his application refused in 1851, but he was granted a license in 1852. The fact that William Tattershall had a license to sell wines and spirits and was only across the road made it more difficult for John Gaunt to successfully apply as Mr Tattershall regularly opposed Mr Gaunt's applications.

In 1853 when license applications were made, the pub was described as "very commodious" (ie comfortable and roomy), and Mr Gaunt was said to be "a very respectable" man. Although he provided written testimonials from the vicar, Mrs Clarke of Noblethorpe Hall and other "influential inhabitants" he was again refused a license.

Following his first application in 1851, John Gaunt was continually refused a license partly due to the big influence of the Temperance Movement, who opposed the sale of all alcohol, and partly due to the local continued objections of Mr Tattershall in the pub opposite. His cause wasn't helped when he was brought in front of the magistrates in Jan 1857 "for keeping his beerhouse open after 11 o'clock at night" and fined 9s 6d.

It took 13 years, and seven failed applications, before The Junction finally obtained a license in Sept 1864. By 1861 John Gaunt's father in law, William Barlow was 82 years old and had retired from the Six Ringers to live with his daughter and son-in-law at The Junction. John's daughter from his first marriage, Ann Kay, worked in the pub at the time. She would eventually inherit the pub by the time she married Jonathan Ingerson. as landlord in The Station until he retired in 1887 when the premises were put up for auction. The advert in press described the sale as a "valuable freehold and fullylicensed public house, cottage, butcher's shop and garden", with a slaughter-house and stables for four horses. "The House, which is in excellent repair, contains large Tap Room, Commercial Room, Bar-parlour and kitchen: large Club-room, convertible into and used as two bedrooms, two other bedrooms and three large cellars. Besides a Well, the Ingbirchworth (ie mains) water is laid on to the Premises. The Garden affords a ready means of enlarging the House or erecting Shops or other Buildings".

The pub was sold to Brook & Co of Cubley, Penistone who then sold it to The Barnsley Brewery Co for £3,000 in August 1920. That sale included the pub, cottage, garden and adjoining slaughter-house.

The picture below shows the pub after it had been purchased by the Barnsley Brewery Co in 1920.

When the permanent change of name from The Junction to The Station happened is not clear as it was known by both names in the early 1860s.

John Gaunt's daughter, Ann Ingerson died in 1877 aged 38. Her husband, Jonathan Ingerson, re-married the following year and remained

Issue 103

The picture below is from the 1940s. The cottage at the top of the steps was still occupied as recently as the early 1960s becoming part of the pub later that decade. If anyone has any photographs etc of The Station (old or recent) please get in touch – my details are at the back of the newsletter.
